Washington has launched an all-out assault on New York’s healthcare, and we are counting on Albany to protect working families by allocating sufficient healthcare funding in the State budget.

This is about our children, and ensuring they are able to grow up healthy and strong. It is about providing exceptional patient care, and it’s about making sure working people have access to good jobs in our own neighborhoods.

New Yorkers are traveling from New York City, Buffalo, and everywhere in between to rally in Albany to make sure our voices are heard.

We are fired up and ready to fight for the protection of quality and accessible healthcare for all New Yorkers!
